Fifteen Seniors Chosen For Who's Who

Their Biographies Will Appear In 1946-47 College Edition

Lois Anderson

Berry Brall

Nelle Dawes

Printed in letters of distinction on the pages of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," 1946-47 edition, the names and biographies of 15 Mary Washington seniors will appear in the near future.

The students were chosen by the college officials on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership in extra-curricular activities, and potentiality for future usefulness to business and society. They are Lois Janet Anderson, Martha Ann Bradley, Adelaide Louise Brall, Nora Crowell Bryant, Barbara Lee Buckham, Betty May Caum, Margaret Elizabeth Crickenberger, Jean Ethel Crotty, Nelle Mordell Dawes, Sylvia Iris Francis, Jean Isabell Kirby, Jean McCausland, Margaret Alice Panoast, Virginia Eloise Pinchbeck, and Irene Lillian Taylor.

Not only do the young women receive a certificate declaring the merit of their college performance, the award also has its more practical aspects. The publication keeps on its files complete records of all sent to any firm or employer with which the student wishes to become affiliated. This placement service, now used by 500 companies, is done entirely without charge to the student.

"Who's Who Among Students . . ." lists a two-fold purpose: First, to serve as an outstanding honor to the student who has displayed merit and achieved his college goals—Second, to establish an authoritative reference volume concerning the great body of America's leading college

Through extensive research, the publication has found a definite correlation between the outstanding performance of a person in college and the quality of his work in later life. Six hundred fifty colleges had representatives listed in the book in 1942, 400 more than were listed in the first edition 10 years before.

The publication hopes to serve as an incentive for students to get the best results from their college experience. Furthermore, it offers a standard of measurement for students comparable to those offered by other scholastic organizations.

Caliph Chooses Goodloe and Roe Beauties of MWC

The Caliph's quest was fulfilled Saturday night, January 11, in Monroe Auditorium when Miss Betty Goodloe and Miss Dorothy Towles Rowe was chosen the most beautiful girls on Mary Washington campus. As thirty-seven contestants representing the various clubs and organizations paraded past the Caliph, aptly portrayed by Harwood Bullock, music with an oriental strain provided a background in keeping with the desert theme.

While the judges were narrowing down the group of beautiful girls, entertainment by the Caliph's court included two songs from Sigmund Romberg's "Desert Song" and an interpretive ballet by Mary Sue Dunaway, Margaret Ruth Harrell and Jean Watkins provided the songs.

The judges were Mrs. Philip Cox, Mrs. C. M. Cowan, and Mr. Francis King, all of Fredericksburg.

Descendant of Mother of George Washington Makes Gift To College

Mrs. Alfred I. duPont of Wilmington, Del., has made a gift of more than $62,000 to the college in memory of her mother, Lalla Gresham Ball, Dr. Combs announced shortly before the Christmas holidays.

The gift was made in cash and negotiable securities and will be used to provide scholarships to be valued at $400 each, Dr. Combs said. Mrs. duPont has made previous generous gifts to the college in the form of scholarships and donations to building funds.

Mrs. duPont, the former Miss Jessie Ball of Lancaster County, is a direct descendant of Mary Ball Washington.

Alpha Psi Taps Five In Tuesday's Chapel

Capped and gowned members of Alpha Psi Omega, honorary dramatic club, moved silently among the student body as they tapped new members in Chapel program Tuesday.

The initiates were Fan Cox, Patricia Nussey, Laverne Powell, and Susan Womer. Mr. Russell Walther, riding instructor, was taken in as an honorary member.

According to Betty Caum, president, initiation will take place at the beginning of the new semester.

Question of Salaries For Virginia Teachers Interests Many Here

Teachers are front page news in Virginia these days. With this in mind, one of The Bulletin's roving reporters decided to survey the situation on the MWC front.

Annie Patterson wants to teach Latin and science. She doesn't have any idea as to where at present but preferably in some small Virginia town. Annie is enjoying her practice teaching and feels she really will like teaching and working with children. As to problems, the majority are disciplinary. She recounted a recent instance when a firecracker went off—in the middle of a supposedly quiet classroom.

Feggy Hoffman is interested in salaries and right now the school she has in mind is at Charlottesville and she is fairly sure of a position there next year. Feggy feels that a person runs into many more problems in practice teaching than he does when out on his own. She enjoys teaching but says one must steel himself against disillusionment and be prepared to make it a 24-hour job.

Prom Committee Announces Name & Date of March Dance

Miss Margaret Swander, chairman of the Promenade Committee, has issued the following statement concerning the promenade which is to be held on Saturday, March 1:

"The Promenade Committee has selected Promenade Waltz as the name for the dances to be held Saturday, March 1. The tea dance will be called Collegiate Capers and will be held in Monroe Hall from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. The formal dance will be held in the Hall of Mirrors from 9 until midnight. All girls who are full time students of Mary Washington College and are not members of Cotillion or German Clubs are eligible to attend. Tickets will sell for $3.50 and will go on sale Tuesday morning, January 21, in Washington Hall, Room 201. The sale of tickets will be limited to the number of couples who can be accommodated in the Hall of Mirrors. No refunds will be made after a girl purchases a ticket. A girl may sell her ticket to another student if she finds that she is unable to use it.

"A meeting of all girls attending the Promenade will be held in Monroe Auditorium after Convocation Wednesday evening, February 5. Complete details will be given regarding dance programs, dinner reservations, overnight accommodations for dates, and regulations applying only to girls attending the dances. The girls to take part in the figure will be chosen at that time. The committee for the tea dance will be selected. The final meeting of the girls attending the dance will be held in Monroe Auditorium after Convocation, Wednesday, February 28.

"The committee for the dance has the following members: Miss Margaret Swander, chairman; Mrs. Edwin Lee, Miss Faith Johnston, Miss Virginia Harrison, and Mrs. Bailey Wade."

Graduate Gets M.Sc.

May Queen for 1947 To Be Elected Mon.

"Nominations will be taken for May Queen for 1947 in Chapel, January 14," announced Ann Bradley, Editor of the BATTLEFIELD, in a recent interview.

Following the nominations the Student Government Association will check and approve the list of nominees. Lists will then be mimeographed, and one will be posted in each building on campus.

All candidates for May Queen will promenade in George Washington Auditorium Monday night, January 20, ballots will be distributed to students as they enter the auditorium along with a mimeographed list of the nominees.

After the promenade the vote will be taken. BATTLEFIELD representatives will collect the ballots. Music will be played while the votes are being counted.

As soon as all votes have been counted, the result of the balloting will be announced.

Immediately following the announcement as to the May Queen for 1947, nominations for Maid of Honor will be taken from the floor, and the vote will be taken at that time for Maid of Honor. As in the past, there will be no promenade for Maid of Honor.

The May Queen and the Maid of Honor will select the May Court.

Song of 'Shining Land' From May Day 1946 Is Convo Number

An atmosphere of gaiety and optimism will characterize the opening dance of a concert to be presented Wednesday night, January 15, by the Concert Dance Club. Guron's "Sheep and Goats" provides the theme for the gay dance.

The performance will include a pre-classic suite containing a Sarabande, Gigue, Gavotte, Bourree, and Favanne, the later in the authentic and modern forms. The music of Handel, Bach, Gassac, Ravel and Gould will be featured.

The dancers will present a group of spirituals, "The Old Ark," "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," "Motherless Child," and "Joshua Fit De Battle of Jerico." These will be done in both group and solo form and to traditional music.

The Song from the Shining Land, composed by Levin Houston, and adapted from the 1946 May Day performance will be given;

Let's Break Tradition—

Traditions are sometimes kept through mental laziness. Mary Washington College, in spite of her less than 40 years of life, is swiftly becoming the possessor of a host of traditions.

We do not say that this is bad. Years-old customs become just as much a part of college life as the "alma maters," the class discussions, the dance week-ends. We do not advocate a mass trampling of the Great Seal in Trinkle Library. Nor do we wish all loyal Devils and Goats to burn their colors at high noon in Chandler Circle. We do not wish the candles of Loyalty Night to be snuffed forever.

But it would be wise for the thoughtful citizen of this campus to consider the one tradition which annually comes to life in the junior benefit, this year on January 11. For many years it has been the tradition that the junior class have as its benefit show a beauty contest, in which a beauty queen and her lady-in-waiting are chosen. A class for two years assimilates the talent necessary for its freshman and sophomore benefits. Why must that same class in its junior year fall heir to the sponsorship of a beauty parade? Cannot the juniors combine the teamwork of two-and-a-half years into a show using the majority of the class?

The beauty contest is still a good idea. Why could not the German and Cotillions Clubs be joint-sponsors of such?

Traditions are a wonderful things—we students have made them and we only can change them when a change is in order. J. G.

Write—That's Right—

We have heard the suggestion "Write your Congressman." so often that our first reaction is a snicker. But stop and think about the purpose and results of this suggestion for just a minute. A Congressman's mail is of the greatest value to him. It is impossible for him to know a great deal about all the bills and resolutions introduced, sometimes amounting to over 8000, in one session of Congress. Therefore, it is up to each of us as individuals and as a group to make careful study and give much thought to our local and national problems and pass our opinions and suggestions on to our representatives in Congress.

When writing your Congressman do it in a way that will get results. Make your letters personal—be natural and frank, but also be specific and factual. State your reasons for favoring or opposing a measure. A member is far more interested in your reasons than in your position in the matter. Letters must be signed if they are to be regarded at all, and one spontaneous letter on your own stationery is worth a hundred mimeographed letters written during a "Write Your Congressman" drive.

When a crisis arises, it is the millions of letters from the people that induce the Congressmen to vote the way they do. So when an issue of special importance to you arises, write that letter to your Congressman immediately, and do it right.

Hobbies 'On The Hill' Include Horses & Bees

Carol Bailey, '50—The freshman class has an equestrian in its midst. Carol has loved horses since she was a child and should prove an invaluable asset to the Cavalry.

Laulee Richardson, '47—This petite, dark senior's great passion is music. She enjoys anything she can sing, and is especially fond of semi-classical music. Her dream is now coming true, that of writing arrangements for 'Holiday Chorus.'

Carol Williamson, '48—Carol seems to favor photography, along with many other interests.

Gloria Young, '49—This attractive sophomore's hobby also turns to the field of music. Gloria collects records and has a variety of popular and classical music.

Bob Miller, '47—Bob is one of the ambitious members of the opposite sex. All of his hobbies seem to turn into business propositions. When this vet was 13 years old he raised bees, which turned into a money-making project. His main interest now is farming, from which he seems to be gleaming profits well worth his trouble.

Elizabeth Steffey, '50—A blond freshman, she has become one of the air-minded young women of today. "Steffey" said that she would never have as much fun as she did in her flying days at El Paso, Texas.

Alice Callaway, '48—Alice's specialty is collecting folksongs, a hobby of which she never tires. She is especially fond of the traditional folk songs of which "An Appalachian Christmas Carol" is her favorite.

Jean Bunting, '49—Collecting post cards and post marks is Jean's main interest. She already has post cards from Algiers, England, The South Pacific area, and post marks from Japan, China, and Russia. Jean certainly does get around the globe.

MWC Senior Directs Town Brownie Troop

Engaging in a different phase of extra-curricular activity, Barbara "Bobbie" Matzek, senior, is leader of a Brownie Troop.

Sponsored by the Junior Women's Club of Fredericksburg, this group includes thirty children who meet weekly at St. George's Episcopal Church. With Mrs. Georgina Witt assisting her, Bobbie conducts projects such as braiding mats and pot-holders or taking nature hikes.

Bobbie became connected with her Brownie Troop at the close of last year. She was a Girl Scout herself for many years and is intensely interested in this kind of work. In fact, she says, "I always

Through popular requests and the browbeatings of the editor, here I am again to wish you a new year. Not a happy one necessarily, but a new one. Who would ever want the coming year to be like the past? I know, you didn't want to come back to this place, full moon and empty arms, the men are all at home or Hackensack at Hopewell, and it's a long way from December to May. . . . Cheer up, girls, the worst is yet to come. . . . How's your exam schedule?

If you had a gifted Christmas, and sat on your suitcase to close it, and brought back a lot of things that won't go in your orange crate, pay heed to this commandment: Thou shalt not covet thy roommate's shoes, nor her evening wrap, nor her bunny mittens, nor anything that is thy roommate's.

Since this is gradually turning into a glorified, column, here's something I'm trying to get rid of:

One snapshot. On the back in a mildly flourishing handwriting is "Leipzig, Germany, June 1945." On the back is also a big blue "A." The picture itself is of a large army truck containing seated men. One of these men has goggles on his forehead and looks like Harwood Bullock. If you can claim this, please see the aforementioned Bullet editor. You can find her in Richmond any week end.

Here's a bit of humor gleaned from the R.P.I. "Proscript." "Desire for a social honor system was expressed by women students of Bucknell University at four class meetings held last Thursday. . . . The honor system will place more responsibility on each girl as well as give her more freedom. . . . Suggestions made by the class groups were the abolition of signing-out except on Saturday nights and for late permissions, a specific number of 12 o'clock permissions per semester for girls in each class to be used at their discretion, 1 o'clock permissions instead of 10:30 on Sunday nights. . . . Unquote.

enjoyed Girl Scout work, and I am considering going into this kind of work after graduation. Conducting the troop ought to be good experience for me."

We hope you had a grand holiday and have recovered enough to open at least one eye, for you won't want to miss reading the notes of the "Y's" Owl.

Do you know where the dolls from the Freshman Doll Show went? If you ask some needy child in Fredericksburg, Va. what she got for Christmas, I'll bet you can read the answer in her twinkling eyes.

S.O.S., S.O.S. is the signal from the playground. Girls are needed to help supervise. If you are interested and can spare an afternoon, please see Jane Edmonds in Westmoreland. She'll welcome you with open arms.

If your mail box has been empty lately, maybe you had better answer that ever-growing stack of letters. For just the right stationery, be on the look out for the "Y" girls who will be taking orders for personalized stationery and notecards in your dorm. Here is your chance to get just the kind you have always wanted.

New Year's Resolution: I will attend devotionals every Sunday at 2 o'clock in Monroe auditorium.

A Ghost Awakened Talks On Breakfast

I am the Spirit of Breakfast Duty, and I am quite disturbed by the dining hall at M. W. C. in the morning. Goodness gracious, things are in a bad state there,—so I'm sitting at my desk now writing this appeal to you students to help me!

Do you realize that over 700 of you students are at breakfast every morning? And that a large majority of the waitresses who serve you there have 8:30 classes? And that none of them have any breakfast until every one of you are served? As you can see, these girls need your help in keeping that line moving along as quickly as possible, no matter how sleepy you are! Try putting away your newspapers and books before you reach the trays, try getting silver and napkins in the shortest possible time, and try refraining from picking over the food (it's approximately the same!)

Now that you know the true facts behind that "Hurry the line along, please," and how to remedy the situation,—how about getting to work on it?

SADDLE SOAP

By FUNNY NEWBILL

It is an established fact that in learning to ride well nothing will take the place of actual practice and instruction. But, one can increase one's general knowledge of the horse and equitation, through the reading of good books on the subject. You will notice that I said "good," because some books would hinder your advancement. Our library here on campus has a number of good books on the subject, which Mr. Walther chose, and which advocate the same method of instruction he uses. Careful reading of them would make for more enjoyment of the sport. Some of the newer books just published were Christmas gifts to various jocks around campus. Anne Everett and Babs Spencer got The Horseman's Encyclopedia by Margaret Cabell Self. This is one of the most complete works I've ever seen. It should prove to be an excellent reference book. Another good book is Riding by Benjamin Lewis. Excellent photography illustrates everything discussed, which should make it helpful for beginners. One of the very newest books is Capt. V. S. Littauer's Be A Better Horseman. The man's reputation alone is enough to put it over, but it does seem to be a fine piece of work. For pure enjoyment try the horse stories of C. W. Anderson. They are authentic, too.

Santa's Visit

Santa Claus has come and gone, but not without leaving riding enthusiasts all over the campus with new riding coats, breeches, boots, and such. Most of them are being initiated into service, too. Joan Davis, having acquired shiny new boots, promptly went out and gave them a good soaking in the biggest mud puddle in these parts. Chuck-a-Luck is the horse who was so thoughtful.

College girls hunting with Oak Hill during the holidays were Bev Payne, Allison Bowen, Towles Rowe, and Betty Lou Shelhorse. They have exciting tales to tell of long runs, and natural jumps, etc.

Captain Anne Everett announced Thursday night that an oyster roast was in the making for the Cavalry Troop. This caused general excitement among the nonland-lubbers present.

Oak Hill Stables is a center of activity now, as the men are clearing off the area just in front of the stables for a new ring and outside course. It's just in the making, but should be a dandy when finished.

Recent bad weather has forced riding classes out of the muddy ring, and the result has been long trail rides, and tough outside courses, dreamed up by Mr. Walther.

A visitor on the campus this past week end was Marjorie Hudson, who graduated with the class of '43. Marge was for two years president of Hoof Prints Club, Captain of the Cavalry Troop, and twice winner of the Equitation Championship. She hunted with the Oak Hill Hunt Club Saturday.

The girls basketball season has gotten off to a good start with the practices for the dorm teams already underway. Before the holidays, the girls who were interested in playing signed up for their respective teams in their dorms. Large groups signed up in each dorm with Willard having the largest group with 62.

Each team will have three scheduled practices plus some afternoons during exams when
